The prices of the following trade would be noticed of the advance, and if they would pay advance he would continue; but not the factory must close, as the transce prices were considerably more in the profits. The jobbing trade sent Mr. Indicate the following trade would be noticed for the factory which has now been done. Fundrich's employees are members of the Cigarmakers' International Union, No. 11. of Columbia. The factory employs seventy-five hands.

Odd Fellows' Officers Elected.

At a regular meeting of Susquehanna lodge, No. 80, of Odd Fellows, beld in the lodge room the cigars was elected.

At a regular meeting of Susquehanna lodge, io. 80, of Odd Fellows, held in the lodge room at night, the following officers were elected s night, the following officers were elected a serve for the ensuing term: Noble Grand, rank Stocker; vice grand, F. B. Musser; cretary, R. J. M. Little; assistant secretary, on A. Mouk; treasurer, Sam'l M. Stape, have officers will be installed at the next gular meeting.

Trouble With Tramps.

Workmen at the Susquehanna rolling mill re still troubled with tramps. They occuby the sah pits and other places and when told by the employes to leave, pay no attention to their requests. Last night Officers Wittick and Gilbert succeeded in arresting aix tramps at the mill. This morning they were taken before Squire Evans and sent to jail for five days each.

Sneak Thieves.

On several occasions persons unknown visited the premises of William H. Gilbert, corner of Fourth and Union streets, during the night, and helped themselves to milk. Mr. Gilbert is a milkman, and those persons opened the chest in the yard and carried off a quantity of the milk.

y has grown amazingly. It is not largely tive, but has been recruited in part from he surrounding country and in a measure om the South, whence the more energetic of their race made their way, like the strong shad, to the North. Few of the colored peo-ple who get to Lancaster leave. They like it. e, as everywhere, they are gregarious and they mostly live, pretty closely packed, in the 7th ward. the 7th ward. They are clannish but sociable and know each other's movements pretty well. Of the well established and old residents, Joseph Lebar is by long odds the best known and most universally respected. As barber and waiter he has known and is known to the present generation of Lancastrans as the foremost man of his race and he deserves a place in the INTELLIGENCER'S portrait gallery.

But at present the most notable among the colored population of the city is G. H. Burton, the colored porter of the Stevens house, branching out into minstrel management. To traveler and resident George has become widely known by his regular attendance at the depots and hotels; and in the comparatively few years of his residence here he has tained a respectable eminence that no other man of his race, color and previous condition of servitude ever reached.

For George is not to the manner born. He is a tittle bashful about giving you had seen the being yet unmarried conceals his years as defly as he smooths out the wrinkles and hides the crowfeet. His admiring friends rate him as low as 26; while featous rivals put him up to 37½. Truth as usual lies in the golden mean; if the fact could be ascertained he would be found to be about 32.

corn to bondage, the emancipation proclation and the close of the war gave him adom; and he started in Richmond, Va., h a dray, and did business in Danville, His adventurous disposition and desire the world brought him to the Centen, where he stranded, and he first turned a Lancaster county at E. L. Hambright's i on the Columbia turnpike, three miles of Lancaster. He came to town to help the Belgian block pavement in 1879 and to the Grape hotel with the late W. B. say soon afterwards. He waxed fat. In he want into the livery business, but a superience induced him to go back to me of hotel porter and he became cond with the stevens house, of which he can an important part ever since.

Stime he took a trip South, and among a associate and familiar localities scatisficaty with a suniling hand. He rode limes cura, put up at the beet hotels, specied favors and quarters with such mounty that the representatives of his risom he encountered wealty contents of Vanderbilt. He stayed long to war the nap off his clothes and to see the bottom of his purse, but not to dispel the illusion of his magnificence.

For three or four years he has wrestled with the beggage, sped the parting and welcomed the coming guest, and behaved himself with decorum and profit in his high office as head porter at the Stevens house. Of late a fancy for ministrel management has seized him, and his first experience at Quarryville was erowned with success and $7.50 clear gain. Encouraged by his venture he has projected a monster entertainment for the opers house to morrow night, and his friends await the result with keen expectation.

As may be suspected from his faithful portrait, Col. Burton's weakness is a fondness for good clothes and an ambition to be the best man in town. His scarf pin is selected with good taste; the head of his silk umbrella is a piece of brica-brac that the owner of the $18,000 peach blow was would cry for; his front teeth display good fillings that the denilist counts a masterpiece, and when he walks at the head of his parade to-morrow his moustache will be curied and perfumed to the Queen's taste.

At the Station-house The nine vagrants accommodated with lodging last night were discharged this morn-Ing.

Twenty-three electric lights in the First,
Fifth and Ninth wards were reported as not burning for thirty minutes on Monday night.

When the single young lady works the unmarried ministers pair of slippers, she is trying to win his heart by capturing his understanding.

GRAINING, &C.

INDESTRUCTIBLE GRAINING,

NO CRACKING, NO PEELING, NO BLISTEE

We have a system of graining xew wood that must, in the near future, take the place of the old system on all new work, its merits being as follows: Total jabolition of a painted groundwork, speed and cleaniness in working it, beauty and transparency of fluish, smoothness and durability, and the capability of receiving as high finish as hard wood by the same methods. This process is the nearestapproach to natural wood that has yet been discovered. Call and see samples.
